HAND IN HAND WITH HESTRA

When we want to expand our range, we aim to do so with products of the highest quality. Products that last and maintain their function over time, and can be passed down from generation to generation. Since 1936, the Swedish brand Hestra has been designing and manufacturing gloves of precisely that quality. A family business with excellent control over the production chain, where all design and product development takes place in the small town of Hestra, in Småland. That is why we are delighted to launch the Falu Rödfärg work glove, developed in collaboration with Hestra JOB.

For over 250 years, Falu Rödfärg has protected and preserved the wood of our Swedish houses, and now we also have the opportunity to protect and preserve your hands.
